Love the style, cute and amusing dialogue and vast levels of customisation in this chibi third person game. Make your loli or shota and adorn them with the best outfits, weapons and badges to help them through their adventures alone or with a friend! 8D. I bought this game on a whim since it was cheap, but I have to say I am simply blown away by the quality. Levels are challenging but fair, the pixel art is great, and the soundtrack is superb. This is easily one of the best indie games I have ever played, and for $3 it is an absolute steal! I cannot recommend this enough.. This is the most incredible puzzle game of all time. Do not listen to Ryan Case, he's a moron. this game sucks there is no manual and I was unable to even get something from the inventory. Brutal yet surprisngly fun game

There isn't much platforming per say, most of the gameplay consists of dodging enemy fire (like in SHMUPs) and avoiding deadly obstacles. Game is pretty brutal, there is a health system but you get killed in 2-3 hits, spikes and botomless pits are instant death, and health pickups are placed behind additional obstacles. At the same time it feels very fair, there are no untelegraphed or undodgeable attacks. It still takes some time to figure out enemy or level mechanics (each level has different sprites for deadly spikes, which can be somewhat unexpected). Levels aren't too long and usually have 2 checkpoints so you won't lose too much time by dying.

There is a good variety in level mechanics, almost every level has an interesting gimmick. For example, there is an underwater level where all jumps are higher, or a DDR-themed level where all projectiles are move hints you should press to avoid damage. Same goes for enemies, they have mechanical differences instead of stat differences.

Visually game is nothing special, it looks OK though a few times it's hard to tell which object is a spike or an enemy until you touch it, but it's not much of a big deal. Music is actually quite fitting and enjoyable. There is no plot.

No controller support. Keyboard controls are tight, but I wish the game didn't stay too true to old two-button controller scheme. Later in the game you get a dash ability which is used by pressing Jump + Shoot + Move at the same time and timely use of it is quite vital in some places, but it takes time to get used to the combination. Also there are no buttons for specific weapons, so weapon switch takes time. It's not much of a big deal until you get to level rush (optional bonus level).

Took me around 6 hours to beat. For current price quite a steal as long as you like these kinds of games.. plenty of playing enough in the free version it's time to look at paid. what do we have in the end? are there any major changes? here they are not and it pleases, because you know exactly what product you will receive and you can weigh whether it is worth paying for it. my opinion is worth it. slightly improved gameplay aspects, as well as graphics give a little more fun with the game. maybe it's a placebo effect, but I bought and do not regret buying, and in the future I plan to purchase Bulletproof Act 2. I recommend buying virtual reality helmets for the holders of virtual reality helmets and only for them not to play without it.
